

Corporate Governance

Corporate governance, which is essential to distinguish between personal and corporate funds in management of a company, is grounded on the principles of conducting the business with all integrity and fairness. The company is required to be transparent about the transactions ensuring necessary disclosures and complying with all the laws and shall exhibit responsibility towards the stakeholders and (including financiers, customers, management, employees, government, and the community) and commitment to conduct the business in an ethical manner. Corporate governance attracts investors being a positive influence on the share price of a company. ATS Lawyers offers to provide comprehensive advice on corporate governance and compliance by which the clients can reduce or forestall potential risks such as civil liability, criminal liability, administrative penalties or other threats with the potential to adversely affect their businesses and ensuring that the reputations and images of institutions and individuals remain protected.